Limerick District Model National Schools. KstrictPMod-T These schools will open towards the end of August next. There will 8school-. be in all four distinct schools; a school for boys, for girls, for infants, iimerci and a maritime school. A large and able staff of teachers has been selected. In the boys school all the ordinary branches of English will be taught, including geometry, algebra, book-keeping, and the various subjects so ably treated in the books published and sanctioned by the Board. A series of lectures on natural philosophy and the applied sciences will, from time to time, be delivered by the lecturer appointed for this purpose. The school will be connected with the agricultural establi-hraent at Mongret; and, after the lapse of a short time, instruction will be given in agriculture and horticulture. In the girls school, the usual branches of English which constitute a good and sound education for females will be carefully taught, and instruction will be given in all the departments of needlework, and in domestic economy and practical housekeeping. Linear drawing and music will form part of the instruction given in both these schools. The infants school, will consist of children of both sexes under seven years of age, who will be taught to spell, read, and the elementary parts of writing, preparatory to their admission to the boys and girls schools. In other branches the instruction will be imparted chiefly from object...
